Weekly Sessions for children ages 3-6 June 27 to August 26th

Our Theatre Program instills the importance of imagination, team work, self confidence, and a sense of accomplishment in each child. Using creative drama activities, children explore their active imaginations by bringing stories to life.

Each weekly session is a diverse and rich performing arts curriculum where character creation, pantomime, mind-body coordination, music and arts and crafts are all included. To ensure that our students get a total theatrical experience, each session culminates in a performance for family and friends. The final production is written by the children under the guidance of the instructor.

The instructor, Wensday Greenbaum, is a local performing artist and Theatre Educator. She received a BFA in Drama from Tisch School of the Arts at NYU. Upon returning to her native New England, she worked with All Children's Theatre, a not for profit theatre group of which she had been a member during her own childhood. Wensday enjoys the balance of being a performer herself while also helping children to develop creative thinking, imagination and confidence.
